

Assessment for Individual and Organizational Success

The Sigred Group leverages the Strength Deployment Inventory (SDI) to cultivate transformational leaders and drive results while building positive, motivated, and more engaged teams. By gaining insight into their own and others' intrinsic motivations, executives can lead with enhanced purpose, clarity, and impact.

SDI is designed to help people improve relationships and manage conflict more effectively. The assessment provides a common language that enhances communication across the organization. This shared understanding builds trust and promotes inclusion among the team.

Benefits of SDI

- Easy to understand with a common language
- Understand the motivation of self and others
- Enhances ability to communicate more effectively
- Enhances ability to handle conflict more productively
- Improves relationships
- Builds trust with others

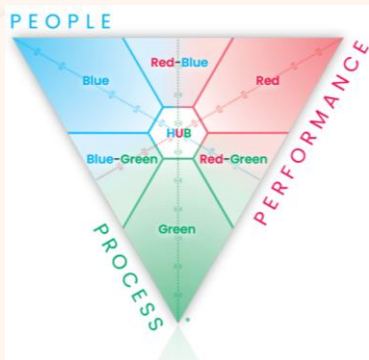

The Process

Self Assessment: Each participant will complete a self-assessment to identify their Motivational Values System, conflict sequence, strengths, and overdone strengths.

Individual Feedback: A one-on-one feedback session conducted by a Certified Coach to review your results, increasing your leadership strengths and areas for improvement.

Detailed Reports:

- Motivational Values System
- Conflict Sequence
- Strengths and Overdone Strengths
- Compare Features of Colleagues
